The MUD FIM Motocross World Championship is a racing game based on the MXGP world championship and is the successor to the MUD series of motocross games. Played by millions of fans worldwide, the FIM Motocross World Championship features 11 categories of racing in a unique cross-over between motocross, off-road and stunt. The new FIM MOTO x GP features a wide range of gameplay modes, including the new “drift zone” mode. This mode provides the opportunity to race around a circuit with specially prepared corners that provide maximum grip for the ride of a lifetime. Other modes include time trials, with both single laps and a timed finish, while the new “cross-over” mode provides the opportunity to race on circuits from various different motocross and off-road championships. Whether it is the cross-country or BMX worlds, the MOTO x GP series offers a different track and circuit each week, along with special challenges that provide increased rewards. In addition to the choice of circuits, the game features a range of disciplines from motocross and road racing, along with a series of bikes and riders that span multiple generations. Controls are designed to be easy to pick up and play, and to allow easy and fast game play. The controls are designed to be as simple and intuitive as possible, with the exception of the new cross-over and drift zone modes, where the game also provides a simple yet highly immersive user experience. The MOTO x GP series includes three game modes that can be played alone, offline or online. In the “Story Mode” players are able to collect XP, coins, credits and championships by racing in the actual GP world championships, plus they can also earn the chance to race on the Pro Circuit and win events. Trackside is a single-player mode that allows players to drive through a variety of races, including motocross, road racing and stunt, in a variety
