Q: Bizarre HotSpot Error So, I've been getting a lot of spurious errors (about a half a dozen or so so far) in my JVM when running my code. Here is one: The thread 0x55645 has exited with an error code 0xc000007b (0xfffffb) I found a similar question/answer here, but the solution there wasn't helping: Running JVM with System.gc() and finally() at same time leads to an IllegalMonitorStateException I've tried setting the GC setting on my JVM to 'Always', but that didn't seem to help (might have been a typo in my settings, as I couldn't find any way to read them). What else can I try to figure out what is causing these errors? A: The problem was an instance of java.lang.OutOfMemoryError. I fixed it by modifying my code to dispose of objects (which were causing the OOMs) when my program was shutting down. Note that you shouldn't have to do this. For all you know, the memory leak could have been solved with "just" garbage collection (ie. a setting like "ExplicitGC" rather than "Always"). Anyway, it didn't happen. Q: MySQL query with multiple conditions I have a table with this structure: CREATE TABLE IF NOT EXISTS `Person` ( `id` bigint(20) NOT NULL AUTO_INCREMENT, `mail` varchar(45) NOT NULL, `sex` varchar(2) NOT NULL, `name` varchar(255) NOT NULL, `surname` varchar(255) NOT NULL, PRIMARY KEY (`id`), UNIQUE KEY `UNIQ_1c2637e4e2b9c98d0b9d9b8a4bc97` (`mail`), UNIQUE KEY `UNIQ_1c2637e4e2b9c98d0b9d9b
