The movie was based on the novel Manichitrathazhu by J.D.Bhasha. Plot A young widow, Parvathy (Shobhana), lives in the small town of Ottamadu with her 11-year-old son, Menon (Madhavan). He loves reading adventure stories, especially films.

Parvathy's elder sister has gone abroad to meet her son after 20 years of their separation. Parvathy and Menon meet the Raghavan (Pradeep) and Menon falls in love with a village beauty, Antha (Tina), at the age of 12. Raghavan sees a resemblance in Menon to his late wife. She is about to marry Parvathy's brother, but before the marriage, Antha dies in an accident. The woman is identified as Gita (Shobhana), the illegitimate daughter of Narayana Menon (Sagar). Menon is in love with Antha since childhood. Narayana Menon gets enraged at his son for deceiving his daughter and the love affair. He wants him to marry Gita, but Narayana Menon's brother, Chittan (K.P.A.C. Lalitha), does not approve of the marriage, as he is not a rich man. Narayana Menon is a police inspector and earns much money. He meets a girl named Manichithrathazhu (Anuradha) and likes her innocence. When she runs a garage, he pays the bill and helps her with the police. They fall in love with each other. Narayana Menon asks Raghavan to get married to Manichithrathazhu, as he has a good police record and will not be seen easily. Menon, meanwhile, gets separated from Parvathy. He goes to his village in an attempt to find the secret of his mother's murder. He gets involved in a flashback of his childhood. He accidentally finds Gita in the village and they begin to meet regularly. Menon finds out that Raghavan married Manichithrathazhu. Narayana Menon is determined to kill Manichithrathazhu to save his wife, Raghavan. Raghavan is suspicious about him and follows Menon. Chittan notices Menon when he is gone. Meanwhile, Raghavan meets Menon and reveals f3e1b3768c
