Empire Dawn Of The Modern World Cracked Description: Empire Dawn Of The Modern World Cracked is a strategic game in which you take the role of a country called Goodwill, and your goal is to push your opponents to the edge of the map, and then invade them to take control of their capital city (or cities). In the game, you control a country with three resources: coal, iron, oil. You will be competing against other countries for these resources. You can spend your money on buildings, fleet upgrades, and research, which makes you richer, faster, and better equipped to handle the battles ahead. In the game, you won't be fighting your enemy head-to-head; instead you will be putting pressure on your enemy by denying them coal, iron and oil. When your opponent is completely out of resources, you will be able to invade them without fear of retaliation. After successful attacks on your enemy's capital you are able to take control of their cities and begin conquering them. You can use your military, science, and money to develop your cities. As the number of cities grows you are able to expand your empire and search for new markets. Doing this will increase your income and improve the efficiency of your resources. You can also make war against your neighbor and take control of their cities.
