-Wisconsin State Senator Glenn Grothman “We’re going to legalize rape!” -St. George’s School of Maryland president Richard Williamson It seems appropriate, after the American president’s speech last night on rape, to review the statements of one of the most outspoken supporters of the legalization of abortion in the U.S., a statement he made in 2001, the year before he was appointed to a prominent position at St. George’s School of Maryland. Said

Richard Williamson, now president of St. George's School: We are going to legalize rape! –Comment made in the course of a lecture to his students at St.

George's School in Maryland. In 2011, as St. George's School president, Richard Williamson was presiding over a fundraiser for the school which was attended by Chelsea Clinton. "To the children of St.

George's School, may you always enjoy the opportunity to create and receive at your side, the kind of love, warmth, and support that are found in all families, but found especially in the families of St. George's School. And may your days be filled with love, warmth, and support as you grow up to become the future leaders of our country." –Richard

Williamson, St. George's School, 2011 In 2013, after Mr. Williamson became president of the school, it was revealed that he had defended a child rapist at the Catholic high school where he was a teacher. In the summer of 2012, Ephrata, Pennsylvania priest Edward Avery was charged with raping a teenage boy. The priest pleaded guilty to the charge and was put on probation for two years. During this time, Williamson defended the priest in an interview with the school newspaper. He said: “It’s our job to protect our young men and boys, and I believe that in doing that, we are protecting them by protecting them from evil and harm.” After his appointment to the position at St.

It is located west of the Pudukkottai town. The village covers an area of and has a population of about 8,000. Vemuri is well known for its Odanalur Vaazhkai, a well-known carnival performed during the Tamil month of Panguni. A special pooja is performed to appease the goddess Vaazhkai. The local population conducts this pooja once a year in the Tamil month of Panguni. The festival is generally held from 12 to 13 January each year, during the Tamil New Year festival. The temple of Vaazhkai is located at the heart of the village and is dedicated to a goddess named Vaazhkai. The temple is administered by a Sankaravasam (senior priest). Vemuri has a government middle school, the Dhanavanthara Nadar Matriculation Higher Secondary School and a high school, the Sri P.Ramachandra Vidyalayam. Labour MP John McDonnell called for workers not to pay the new minimum wage for the next six weeks to force it back down. In November 2014, some employees went on strike for the same reason, but no-one was willing to join in this year. Businesses 2d92ce491b
