Feb 12, 2020 The reason for this is so easy it isnt even funny!!! .Please update your browser Together with you we want to make the world a better place, for that we need a web browser that supports current web technology. Unfortunately, your browser is rather old and can't display betterplace.org properly. It's easy to update: Please visit browsehappy.com and choose one of the modern browsers that are showcased there. Best from Berlin, your betterplace.org-Team We have already recieved a lot of emails about the bad experience you are having with the pages of the website. It is of course not really difficult to update your browser, however there is a problem, as the actual browsers offered in the showcase of browsehappy.com are an old style. After having recieved many requests we will start offering the browsers which are offered at browsehappy.com. We will also try to offer an up-to-date version of the browsers available there. If you have any questions, do not hesitate to contact us. Kind regards, Your betterplace.org Team P.S. If you have been registered with us for a while, you have a good browser, which will be updated automatically for you.Q: CSS Flex: Auto height using display:table/table-cell for a simple table I have a table which is not very complex. I am using display:table/table-cell to get the table to expand and shrink with the browser window. I am using display:table-cell to maintain a single line of text for each row. The problem I am having is that the height of each row seems to be the same as the height of the text. How can I get the table to use the full height of the row? JSFiddle Update: Flex is causing the issue. I had a link style of `a{ text-decoration: none; color: #0066FF; }` which should have been `a:link{ text-decoration: none; color: #0066FF; }` I changed the text-decoration to inline, but now the last cell in a row no longer expands and shrinks properly. The proposed research aims at understanding the molecular mechanisms involved in the degradation of nucleic acids in eukaryotic cells, including those of tumor cells. Degradation of DNA plays a major role in the physiology and pathology of living cells. This degradation affects the transcription and replication of DNA, the ultimate outcome of the processes involving ribonucleotide reductase and DNA polymerases. In addition, there is a fine balance between the synthesis and degradation of the RNA and the DNA. Degradation of RNA provides the means for the "recycling" of nucleic acids and the control of protein synthesis. The proposed research is aimed at understanding the molecular mechanisms of nucleic acid degradation in eukaryotes.Q: Initialize and pass function as argument to arrow function I want to create the following function: function func(x) { if(!Array.isArray(x)) throw new Error("Must be an array"); x = x.map(func); return x; } The function is to get all the items in the array passed as an argument. This is what I did: function func(x) { if(!Array.isArray(x)) throw new Error("Must be an array"); let y = x.map((a) => func(a)); return y; } But I get an error: "Cannot read property 'map' of undefined". What am I missing? A: The problem is in your function func. It's a function you're using for mapping the array, and you're missing a 4bc0debe42
