ManyToManyField - Filter through parent objects First off, I'm still new to Django and Python in general. I have the following

models: class Items(models.Model): is_favorite = models.BooleanField(default=False) color =

```
models.ForeignKey(Colors, blank=True) class

```
Colors(models.Model): title =

```
models.CharField(max_length=255, blank=True) I have two questions: Is there any way to filter an Items table through its Color table (SELECT items.*, colors.title from items LEFT JOIN colors ON (items.color=colors.id)) How can I change the template so that I display the color title of the parent Item?

Thank you in advance. A: Do it like this: from my_project

import Items, Colors qs =

Items.objects.all().filter(color__title=some_title) For the second question, you can create a custom template tag. Do the following: from django import template register =

template.Library() @register.filter def get_color_title(color):

return color.title Then in the template, do this: {{

item.color|get_color_title }}

You can read more about custom template tags in the Django documentation Funding
