As I set out to write this, I was stunned to discover that the Ambient Clock Widget is exactly 20 years old. This was the second software tool I made after I had shipped my first mobile game called Frobisher's Quest for the first generation of mobile phones in 1999. For those of you who don't know, the Frobisher's Quest Widget program shipped on the Nokia 7110 XL telephone. If you don't know what a Frobisher is, it's just a plug for the Frobisher's Quest game. Some months after Frobisher's Quest shipped, I made my second game for a phone named the Internet Telephony Phone. So the Ambient Clock Widget came out in 1998, just 3 years later. Amazing! The Ambient Clock Widget is a very simple app. It's designed to be able to constantly show the time as a widget on the mobile device's home page. If you then tap on the widget, a menu
