It is the first Lazarus release since the IDE was split into a native version, as well as the R/Finder and Lazarus.RADStudio applications. Lazarus 2.0 brings a whole host of new features and enhancements, the most noticeable being the introduction of the live code edit, which allows Lazarus developers to see the code behind their applications as they work. Other new features include the ability to import and export classes from other applications, a new IDE property manager, a built-in debugger and a host of performance enhancements. Want to see it in action? Here is a short video, that will give you a taste of Lazarus 2.0: Design-time support for "Get Help" menu items Lazarus includes a "Help" menu item which enables developers to have access to the help file of the current target application. This has been implemented in Lazarus 2.0 in the following way: It is possible to design-time support for "Get Help" menu items. This can be configured by clicking on the "..." menu item next to the "Get Help" item in the menu bar and choosing "Get Help" to get a dialog where you can select between: * the Help file of the current target application * the Help file of the app you are creating After clicking on "Get Help", the dialog can be saved by pressing the "Save" button. Notifications Notifications can be enabled and disabled by the user in the options of Lazarus. It is now possible to get notifications for the following: * code changes (file changes) * build errors * target application errors * build warnings * warnings from third-party plugins The "Notifications" menu entry now contains a number of "Get Help" menu items, that are related to the different notifications. When

What's New in the ClipBoard Plus?

Quite often, when working on various projects, being able to store multiple text strings in the clipboard would save you a lot of effort. Naturally, this is not possible without a third-party utility. ClipBoard Plus is a small, open-source program designed to extend the Windows clipboard and enable you to access the last five items to be copied. It isn't the most complex application of its kind, but it can definitely prove helpful. View the latest copied text strings After installing the application, you will see a new, tiny window on your desktop. Its design is minimalistic, containing only five simple fields where the copied text will be displayed. When you copy something to the clipboard, the text will be saved in the order in which it was added. You can remove any of the entries or clear the entire list at any time. Copy items from the list easily Of course, you can also copy any of the entries to the clipboard when you need them. All you need to do is click the item you are interested in, which will also be moved to the top of the list. Not surprisingly, displaying passwords in this list can be very risky, so the application hides this type of content to prevent sensitive information from falling into the wrong hands. Simple and unobtrusive As far as clipboard managers go, ClipBoard Plus is one of the simpler applications you can choose from. It is easy to use, but you have to remember that it offers a fairly limited set of features. Nevertheless, it is easy to set up and shouldn't interfere with your work, as it can be minimized to the system tray at any time. In the end, ClipBoard Plus is worth a try if you are looking for a straightforward, lightweight clipboard manager. It isn't particularly advanced, but it can do the job.Q: Show that the module of derivatives is generated by $1, y^{(1/2)}$ and $y^{(1/4)}$ This is the given problem : Let $R$ be a ring with $1$ and let $M$ be an $R$-module with $n$ generators $\{e_1, e_2, \cdots, e_n\}$.
