To determine the efficacy of a metoclopramide-prostaglandin F2 alpha analogue combination for cervical ripening in preinduction of labor. Randomized, controlled trial. University maternity hospital, Amman, Jordan. One hundred nulliparous women with a Bishop score of 4 or less and intact membranes at 34 to 38 weeks of gestation. Study group I received a combination of 600 mg metoclopramide plus 2 mg misoprostol (n = 50). Study group II received 2 mg of misoprostol alone (n = 50). Pregnancy outcomes included occurrence of vaginal delivery before and within 48 hours, cesarean delivery, operative vaginal delivery, and operative vaginal delivery within 48 hours. A significantly higher proportion of the metoclopramide-misoprostol group delivered within 48 hours (52.0%) as compared with misoprostol alone (23.0%) (P =.03). There was no significant difference between groups in any other outcome. Metoclopramide-misoprostol combination is superior to misoprostol alone for the induction of cervical ripening and reduction of the time to delivery.The $60 million renovation of the Under Construction Parking lot in the vicinity of the historic Dr. Morehouse School of Medicine has been completed. The parking lot was constructed adjacent to a historic landmark, the Morehouse School of Medicine, building. Last year, the university began planning for the redevelopment and construction of the parking lot. The school opened the new parking lot in April of last year. Since the opening of the new parking lot, the construction of the new park and library has been completed. The construction
