It was produced by Babyface and Louis Biancaniello and written by Babyface, Biancaniello and Jermaine Scott, who had been added to the songwriting team on the album after "I Won't Cry" and "Can't Leave 'em Alone". The song became one of his biggest hits in the late 1990s and early 2000s, reaching number-one on the U.S. Billboard Hot 100 and number-one on the Hot R&B/Hip-Hop Songs, becoming the second of only four songs in the Hot 100's history to have the same number on both charts. It also reached number-one in Australia and New Zealand. Background and composition The record was produced by Babyface and Louis Biancaniello, and was written by Babyface, Biancaniello and Jermaine Scott, who was added to the songwriting team on the album after "I Won't Cry" and "Can't Leave 'em Alone". The song is also a duet with singer and actress Whitney Houston. Houston's vocals were recorded separately from the other vocals, but are included in the song's final mix. All four verses are sung by Babyface and Houston, with the chorus performed by both of them. Critical reception AllMusic critic Stephen Thomas Erlewine called the song "fabulous", saying that its "roiling beat and addictive horns play up the nagging, seductive undertones". On Houston's voice, he remarked that it sounds "as vibrant as ever", adding that the song is "ultimately heartbreaking, a testament to baby-faced commitment and Whitney Houston's incomparable taste in men". Rolling Stone's Peter Tabert awarded the song four stars out of five, and wrote that the song "picks one heck of a punch", further stating "it's a toe-tapping tune that will not disappoint." Chart performance "Up on the Down Low" debuted at number 34 on the Billboard Hot 100 chart in the week of June 1, 1996. It went up to number 2 during the week of
